

LIST OF RECOMMENDATIONS BY CATEGORY AND SECTOR OF ACTIVITY

COVID-19

The guidelines and standards issued by the DGS include measures that are recommended based on the best technical and scientific evidence available on the date of publication; this is why compliance with them is essential for effective mitigation of this Pandemic.

Now that establishments and services are reopening, the recommendations in the DGS's technical documents should be adopted, with any necessary adjustments for the local reality and particularly, for each sector or activity; at the same time, current legislation must be obeyed.

Some standards and guidelines are applicable across several different contexts, namely:

- DGS Standard no. 004/2020 which contains the definition of a suspected and confirmed case of COVID-19, which people should know about in order to correctly deal with a suspected case;
- DGS Guideline no. 006/2020 relating to procedures for prevention, control and surveillance in companies, which specifies the need to prepare and update the Contingency Plans in which the routes and isolation areas are defined;
- DGS Guideline no. 011/2020 for definition of general measures in establishments that are open to the public, and the like;
- DGS Guideline no. 014/2020 for standardising procedures for cleaning and disinfection of spaces;
- DGS Guideline no. 019/2020 and information bulletin no. 009/2020, which deal with the use of masks by people who are not health professionals.

The table below lists the technical documents that can be used for various sectors of activity. This aims to facilitate the search for guidelines specific to each sector/subject, by means of sharing them with other sectors for which technical documents already exist.

This table does not replace consultation of the specific guidelines for each establishment, institution or service, where they exist, nor of the legislation in force. The measures should be applied once resumption of the respective activity has been determined.
